RAF Continues Smashing Attacks with Heavy Bombs, Germans Raid Southern England

LONDON, Thursday, June 26. (AP)—The RAF smashed with heavy bomb-loads at key areas of German-occupied France early today, continuing without pause the earth-shaking attacks which the British Broadcasting Corporation called only the beginning of "the most gigantic air offensive known in the world's history."

The shuddering explosions were clearly audible in England, even though some appeared to come from well inland in France.

German planes meanwhile were reported over parts of southern England, dropping incendiary bombs in one area.

Smashing hard at Germany's western front while the Nazi war machine is preoccupied with Russia on the east, the RAF is sending over by night a new-type "giant" bomber which is "more than twice the size of any earlier models," an authoritative source said, and in numbers of "between 250 and 400."

This was the first time the British had mentioned 400 attacking planes. It was stated that the new power has been made possible partly by the increasing flow of United States-made planes, permitting greater risk of available craft.

New Bombing Peak Reached

In the last twenty-four hours the RAF sent more bombers and fighters against Germany and German-occupied France than during any similar period since the beginning of the war, an informed source stated in discussing the new peak of ferocity in the air fighting.

Describing the new day-and-night offensive, the BBC said it "has been carefully planned during long and anxious months when we had to restrict our activity."

"But now," the BBC continued, "production of aircraft, supported by the ever-increasing stream from America, enables us to strike back with a force which will prove more devastating than anything we have so far experienced in this country."

The air ministry said thirteen German planes were shot down in the morning and afternoon raids on the French coast, adding to the official British claim of 121 planes destroyed in nine days of intensive cross-channel bombing. The British acknowledged two planes missing from the morning raid and said four, including one bomber, were missing in the second sweep.

Germany's Version

The Germans reported eleven British planes destroyed and three German planes destroyed during one British raid on the French coast today.

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—Announcing that Chrysler Corporation had refused to rescind a recent price advance, Price Administrator Leon Henderson asserted tonight that the company's action "is forcing us to take the pricing of automobiles out of the hands of the industry."

Henderson had made a general request to the industry to withdraw announced price increases on cars to be sold during the balance of the current model year.

Defense Mediators Urge Them To Settle Their Differences

(By The Associated Press)

Striking lumber workers in the Puget Sound area were urged anew by the Defense Mediation Board yesterday (Wednesday) to go back to their jobs and settle their differences by collective bargaining.

In a telegram from Washington to conciliators assigned to the case, the board sought to clarify its previous recommendations on what it termed a "modification of the union shop." This recommendation, the telegram said, was that "every present employee who belongs to the union (CIO International Woodworkers) and every future employee who joins the union, as a condition of employment, maintain union membership in good standing."

The board also urged employers to recommend that new employees join the union within forty days.

Thousands Return to Work

Originally the strike involved 12,000 workers but a board official said all but about 1,500 had returned to work. Those who went back accepted wage increases of 7 1/2 cents an hour and paid vacations pending an economic survey of the industry by a commission. Leaders of the union rejected these terms, demanding a 10-cent boost in the present base of 67 1/2 cents an hour.

A new turn of events in the current strike situation occurred in Philadelphia where President Frank Rosen of the Progress Manufacturing Company announced that he was going to discontinue his electrical manufacturing business because he could not deal with men "who beat people up." Five men were injured and at least fifteen arrested in strike rioting outside the Progress factory this week.

"I've been in business more than thirty years," Rosen said. "But I'm going to liquidate now, sell the building, stock and machinery at auction or to the government if it wants them, and forget the whole thing."

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT, June 25.—The Ford Motor Company will build 205 huge bomber planes a month in the new airplane factory it has under construction on a 975-acre tract of land four miles east of Ypsilanti, Mich. Seventy-five of the number will be completely assembled bombers and 130 will be in "knocked down" shape to be finally assembled at government-owned plants at Tulsa, Okla., and Fort Worth, Texas.

This became known definitely today with announcement that the Defense Plant Corporation has allocated $47,620,171 to the project. Of this amount $31,961,300 will be

Finland To Fight Soviet Invasion, Statement Says

Twenty-Three Russian Planes Shot Down Up to Last Night

HELSINKI, Finland, Thursday, June 26. (AP)—Beset devastatingly by Russian bombers all day and night Wednesday, Finland announced early today her determination to defend herself with all her power against this latest "aggression" by an old enemy.

The defense already is under way, Premier Jukka Rangell told Parliament during a secret night session, called while Soviet bombs rained down on his country.

(Authoritative sources in Berlin said Finland had decided to go formally to war against Russia, but the announcement of Premier Rangell referred only to defense against aggression.)

During the night, this capital city had its fifth air raid alarm in less than twenty-four hours.

Planes Cover Wide Area

The Russian warplanes ranged far and wide over this country which they laid waste during the brief war of 1939-40.

The Ensogeton wood and cellulose factory at Kotka, one of the largest in the north, was heavily raided with damage estimated at 45,000,000 marka (roughly $1,000,000).

It was officially stated that twenty-three Russian planes had been shot down in Finland by 6 p. m. Wednesday, twenty-one of them by Finland's air force and two by anti-aircraft.

During the day the Russians turned the naval guns of Hangö (Hanko) peninsula on adjacent Finnish territory, bombarding it periodically until after 3 p. m.

Hango Section Raided

The area around Hango, the base which the Russians swung from Finland in the peace settlement of March, 1940, was the scene of violent air raids all day. Russian planes also raided nearby islands.

Incendiary bombs set fire to the hospital at Lovika. Another hospital was damaged at Turku, where a whole block of houses was destroyed. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Vichy Hears Russians Have Stopped Nazis In Seven Attacks

VICHY, UNOCCUPIED FRANCE, June 25. (AP)—Military information reaching Vichy tonight from the Russian front said that seven German attacks had been stopped or slowed down by determined Russian resistance.

Vichy sources emphasized that the Russians were fighting a slow delaying action in front of their main line of fortifications, which has not yet been reached.

All the fighting thus far has occurred in the territories which Russia has acquired since September, 1939.

(Presumably the Russian main line is on the former border of Russia proper.)

As pictured in Vichy, the German attack appeared as two great "pitchforks" of three prongs each on the northern and southern flanks, with a single attack on the center.

The three forks of the northern attack were based on East Prussia, with one aimed at Riga, where the Germans were reported advancing slowly against the rail junction of Sauliai; the second against Kaunas, reported virtually stopped; and the third against Grodno, completely stopped.

Latest advices here said Grodno was in Russian hands, indicating the Red army have recaptured the town, which previously was admittedly lost.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 25. (AP)—The state of Maryland today sold $859,000 worth of general indebtedness bonds at a net interest rate of less than one per cent.

TARGET OF GERMAN DRIVE INTO THE UKRAINE

Main objective of the Nazi drive into the rich Ukraine district is the city of Kiev, known as the mother of Russian cities. It forms the most important railway and motor road center of southern Russia and is the door to the oil-rich Caucasus and Black Sea provinces. As this map indicates, the Nazis are driving from captured Brest-Litovsk through the Pripiet Marshes and northeast from Bessarabia toward Kiev.

Japan To Reveal Course in War in Statement Today

Tokyo Leaders Hold Several Conferences and Plan Future

TOKYO, June 25. (AP)—The Japanese government watched closely the attitude of the United States today as it debated in two important conferences whether to choose between Germany and Russia in the new war.

Japan has treaties with each of the embroiled nations. The authoritative news agency Domei said Tokyo may take a stand based on settlement of the "China affair" and strengthening of the "greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere."

Some informed quarters believed the government had decided that the empire must choose between her three-power pact with the Axis and her two-months' old neutrality treaty with Russia.

Statement Due Today

The government debated the question at length in two conferences today and was reported to have decided to issue a statement tomorrow.

Domei and the press indicated the United States was a central subject in the discussion. The popular newspaper Yomiuri said Washington's decision to aid Russia was "the result not only of the president's anti-German feeling but also of an effort to gain a foothold against Japan and thus complete the latter's encirclement in the Pacific."

War Minister General Eiki Tojo told munition makers today that the future attitude of the United States "defies prediction," and he said that Japan was getting ready for "perfect security" in the "ever-changing international situation."

Hold Joint Meeting

The imperial high command and the cabinet met jointly, an unusual procedure, in the first of today's meetings. Then the cabinet met for three hours after which Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye informed Emperor Hirohito of the proceedings.

Then the premier conferred with Marquis Kido, lord privy seal, to whom major matters of state are communicated. Significance was attached to this meeting.

Official secrecy covered the debate, as it has ever since Germany's surprise invasion of Russia.

Would Close Big Port

The main effect of a proclamation in the Russian-German war would have been to close the port of Vladivostok to American ships bearing arms. All other Russian ports are within proclaimed combat zones which are banned entirely to American shipping.

In announcing the president's decision, Welles cited section one of the neutrality act which calls for a neutrality proclamation when the president or Congress finds "that there exists a state of war between foreign states and that it is necessary to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States or to protect the lives" of American citizens.

Roosevelt Provides Way for American Ships To Carry Arms to Russia

By J. C. STARK

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—President Roosevelt decided today not to apply the neutrality act to the Russian-German conflict, and thereby left American ships free to carry arms or any other materials across the Pacific to the Soviet Union.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, announced the president's decision at a conference. Welles said that Russia had made no request for American aid and had sent no communication to the Washington government in response to Mr. Roosevelt's promise of yesterday to extend all assistance possible to the Soviets.

From the American ambassador in Moscow, Laurence Steinhardt, the state department has received considerable information on the new conflict, Welles said. He did not indicate the nature of this.

The practical effect of the president's decision remained for future determination in view of the difficulty of immediately supplying any heavy arms such as airplanes or tanks.

Russia Short of Ships

Russia is short of shipping facilities but Welles said it was too early to determine what use might be made of American ships to transport arms or other materials.

A neutrality act proclamation would have prohibited American ships from taking arms to Russia as a "belligerent" but would not have affected transport of non-military material to Vladivostok, the Siberian port on the Pacific which is not in a combat zone.

The president's decision put the Russian-German struggle in effect on the same "undeclared" basis as the four-year-old Sino-Japanese conflict, so far as the American government is concerned.

The president has never declared a state of war to exist between China and Japan and thus American ships have been free to carry arms to China.

The United States likewise refrained from proclaiming a state of war between Russia and Finland in their conflict in the winter of 1939-40.

Since the outbreak of the European war, however, the president has issued neutrality proclamations in every previous conflict in which Germany has been engaged.

Nazis Repulsed In Great Battle, Moscow Declares In Communique

Germans Driven Back on Prut River, High Command Says; City of Przemyśl Recaptured

MOSCOW, Thursday, June 26. (AP)—German troops attempting to cross the Prut river on the southern end of the vast European battle front were thrown back by Soviet troops and Nazi infantry driving toward Wilno in old Lithuania have been cut off by counter-attacking Red soldiers, the Russian high command reported today.

The Germans tried repeatedly to cross the Prut river boundary between Rumania and Russia, particularly at Cerhault, the Bucovina capital, the war report declared.

The Wilno area, east of the German Prussian frontier, was the scene of fierce fighting "in the course of the fighting separate groups of enemy tanks succeeded in breaking through to the area of Wilno and Oshimany."

"Our land troops, by stubborn resistance and active operations, cut off enemy infantry units in these directions from their tank troops."

Resist in Central Sector

The Russians also were said to be putting up a successful resistance against the Germans in the central part of the long front—near Lwów and Brody in former Poland.

While fighting fiercely to stem a German drive toward Brody, about fifty miles east of the Bug River boundary, other Red troops took the offensive and recaptured Przemyśl, a border town southwest of Brody.

Przemysl also is about fifty miles west of Lwów, another apparent objective of the German drive, the communique said.

The Russians reported they shot down seventy-six planes in aerial fighting extending from attacks on Poland in the far north to the Rumanian Black Sea port of Constanta, now a German naval base.

From all these engagements the Soviets said they lost only seventeen planes.

"Our air force dealt a number of devastating blows on German air-dromes in Finland," the communique related, and added that one German flier shot down over the Finnish-Soviet border had been captured.

Great Successes Reported in Nazi Statement on War Against the Reds

Victories "Baffling the Imagination" Claimed; Soviet Tank Units Destroyed

BERLIN, Thursday, June 26. (AP)—Swarms of Stuka dive-bombers were reported today to have smashed Soviet troops and munition trains moving up to the Balkan front as Nazi tanks sliced eastward in their attempts to encircle masses of Red army soldiers.

Successes "baffling the imagination" were claimed by Germany, and one informed quarter expressed belief the Red high command already had been cut off from contact with some of its armies in the vast battle surging from the Baltic to the Black sea.

The official news agency DNB reported that a German squadron attacked six long freight trains loaded with war materials and troops in an unnamed southeastern Russian town.

Freight cars were bombed off the buckled rails, hundreds of Red soldiers scrambled from the overturned cars and then were sprayed by German machine-gun fire.

The depot became a shambles and resulting fires spread to nearby gasoline stores, the agency said.

Tank Units Blown Up

Elsewhere Russian tank units were blown up as well as the gasoline stations serving them; grounded airplanes were destroyed, Red fighter planes patrolling over Soviet bases deep behind the front were shot down by Luftwaffe pilots whose work "was a picture of most extensive destruction."

German sources said Finland had declared war on Russia and had entered into heavy action in the north.

(The Finnish legation in London announced that repeated Russian territorial violations amounted to open hostilities against Finland and thus Finland was compelled "from now on to defend herself with every means in her power.")

The vast German army was declared plunging eastward through a blazing heat wave to almost incredible victories, while its Finnish and Rumanian allies were smashing at the Soviet flanks upon the greatest battlefield ever known.

These achievements of Nazi arms, said a military spokesman, would be reported in detail tomorrow.

The outlines of the German successes were thus suggested.

Nazi Occupation Of Bessarabia Is Seen Within Week

Rumanian Sources Report Axis Troops Meeting Little Opposition

ANKARA, Turkey, June 24. (Delayed)—(AP)—Rumanian sources predicted tonight that German-Rumanian forces attacking Russia in Bessarabia would complete occupation of the province within a week. The Axis troops are meeting almost no opposition in Bessarabia, these sources said.

German and Rumanian troops were reported to have occupied Gernauli and Chisinau, capitals of Bucovina and Bessarabia. Northern Bucovina and all Bessarabia were ceded to Russia by Rumania after an ultimatum a year ago.

The Germans and Rumanians were reported to be within ten miles of the Dniestr river, the border between Bessarabia and Russia's Ukraine, and driving toward Odessa, important Soviet Black sea port only ten miles from the mouth of the Dniestr.

German sources stress the necessity for a speedy occupation of the northern Black sea coast to cut off Russia's communication with the oil fields of the Caucasus and to seize the southern Soviet industrial plants undamaged.

Nazi pressure veered southward into the Balkans.

Mussolini's premature launching of war against Greece also was considered a factor in Hitler's change of plan.

As told by persons in a good position to know, the course of developments was about as follows:

No Faith in Soviet

Germany never trusted the Soviet government despite the Russo-German non-aggression pact, and this distrust—as much as a desire to obtain bases against England—prompted Hitler to venture the Norwegian campaign.

Nazi Drive against Russia Said To Have Been Set for Last Fall

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—Trustworthy sources told the Associated Press today that Germany's offensive against Russia was planned originally for last autumn.

There also were suggestions that the plan actually was behind the invasion of Poland, having been thwarted by the British-French declaration of war when Hitler had believed they would not fight.

But today's reports only went back as far as last fall, when intimations of the German plan, reaching Moscow, were said to have been responsible for Soviet Premier Molotov's sudden journey to see Hitler last November, after which

White Attends His First Meeting of B.&O. Directors

New President of Road Hears Reports on Six Months

BALTIMORE, June 25 (AP)—Roy B. White, former Western Union head who succeeded Daniel Willard as president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, attended his first meeting of the board of directors today.

Willard presided at the meeting. He assumed the new office of chairman of the board June 1.

The board estimated gross earnings for June at $18,175,000, net income available for interest at $4,629,000, and net income after accrual of all charges at $2,100,000.

For the six months ending June 30 total operating revenues were estimated to be $103,194,000, net railway operating income $21,441,000, and income available for fixed charges $23,688,000. Net income, after covering all interest charges accrued, was placed at $7,985,000.

It was explained the company had under order 5,450 freight cars of which 1,538 had been delivered to date. Cars yet to be delivered include 1,552 box cars, 1,210 gondolas and 1,150 hoppers.

Following the meeting directors left for an inspection of shipping facilities in Baltimore harbor, including Locust Point terminal, largest marine property of the B. & O.

Nazi Drive

Later, her hands busy with the war in France, Germany acquiesced when Russia annexed the three Baltic states: Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, thereby eliminating a buffer area protecting East Prussia.

As a result of the Russian occupation of the Baltic states, Germany evacuated many thousands of German nationals and persons of German race, including families whose homes had been there since the days of the Teutonic knights.

But all this was extremely distasteful to Germany.

Then came plausible reports that Russia was pouring even larger forces into Soviet-occupied Poland as well as into the Baltic states. Germany accordingly strengthened her forces in East Prussia and German-occupied Poland, this movement continuing even into last December, parallel with tense Balkan developments.

Agreement with Sweden. Meanwhile, after the fall of France, Germany had obtained agreements from Sweden and Finland for the transit of troops across their territories.

Sweden today announced she had granted permission for the transit of not more than one division of German troops from Norway into Finland over the Swedish railways. This presumably was in accordance with the transit agreement reached last year.

Finland was acutely worried over recurrent incidents on the Russo-Finnish frontier and began to view Germany as a power whose help might be vital in the future.

With the transit agreement signed, arms and planes began arriving in Finland from Germany, including field kitchens and artillery captured from the French. Loans from Sweden helped the Finns finance new defense construction, and Sweden close to their government predicted Sweden would fight with Finland this time if the Russians again attacked.

Germany also was ready to act, and the conflict was expected in October—but something happened to alter her plans; either some Russian move or the premature outbreak of hostilities in Greece.

stroyed and numbers of persons suffered injuries. The towns of Orvola, Forsby and Pyterlahti also were bombed. Deaths were not disclosed.

The devastation was great. The city of Lappeenranta, for example, was set aflame and many civilians were killed.

A Finnish government spokesman denounced as "a deliberate lie" the Russian accusations that Nazi troops have assaulted the Soviet Union through northern Finland.

In the day's bitter fighting between raiding Soviet planes and the Finnish ground and aerial defenses, two Russian paratroopers leaping from a crippled plane were reported killed, one by the failure of his parachute and the other by Finnish guards.

Many Soviet bombers were of the United States Douglas type.

Meanwhile the Ford company already has begun preliminary work on designing and turning out the tricycle landing gears for the planes.

Coal Crisis Nears. John L. Lewis, president of the CIO United Mine Workers, indicated he was confident that southern soft coal operators would sign a proposed new two-year contract with the union by July 7, and thus make it unnecessary for the union to carry out its threat to close down the southern mines after that date.

The new contract calls for a $7 a day basic wage, as against the old $6.60, and contains many other provisions. The points of disagreement were not disclosed.

Twelve hundred striking AFL machinists were invited to meet last night to decide whether to return to work in the eleven shipyards of the San Francisco Bay region. The strike, in which 500 CIO machinists also are participating, has been in progress 47 days.

Raids on Coast

The morning and again in the afternoon, blowing up an ammunition train in a railroad yard at Hazelbrouck, France, and scoring direct hits on two railroad bridges. One collapsed.

The area between Boulogne and Calais apparently also was attacked heavily, the English coast being shaken by loud explosions after strong forces of bombers accompanied by fighter planes sped over the channel.

The air ministry said that a German air field at Longueuesse near St. Omer was bombed and hangars and buildings were hit in the afternoon raid.

These raids followed up the fourteenth successive night attack on western Germany, the big industrial centers of Cologne and Düsseldorf and the naval base at Kiel being last night's chief targets.

Liverpool Bombed. A solitary German aircraft flew over northwest England this afternoon, but dropped no bombs. The British acknowledged casualties and some damage during last night's German attack on Liverpool. (The Germans said big fires were started along the waterfront.)

The RAF is believed using the new giant Stirling, Halifax and Manchester bombing planes for the first time.

The size, speed and bomb load of all three types are a guarded secret, but it was stated they were all more than double the size of craft used previously.

The use of these giants apparently has been partly responsible for the announced ability of the RAF to drop a greater tonnage of bombs on Germany in the last two weeks than during the entire month of April.

Hundreds at High Mass Affected By Blazing Heat

15,000 Boys and Girls Chant Responses at Eucharistic Congress

ST. PAUL, June 25 (AP)—Hundreds of youngsters wilted under a blazing sun as 15,000 boys and girls chanted responses at a pontifical high mass for children celebrated here today at the ninth annual Eucharistic congress.

An estimated 500 persons, none seriously affected, required treatment at hospital quarters at the state fair grounds, congress center, with some remaining in crowded beds or on makeshift floor cots more than two hours to recuperate.

Taken to the cool recesses of a tunnel linking a race track infield, scene of the mass, with the outer grounds, was an unestimated number that ran into the hundreds—unable to stand the broiling heat.

At the peak of the emergency, police called out eight ambulances and nearly a score of emergency squad cars from the twin cities to transport the victims to shelters on the fair grounds.

The weather bureau said the temperature in the open undoubtedly was around the 100 mark. The official noon reading taken in the shade was 91.

The children from seventy-five schools in a fifty mile area about the Twin Cities gathered for the occasion of reaffirming their belief in the miracle of the Eucharist.

Those affected by the heat were but a handful of the vast crowd that packed the fair grounds grandstand and much of the infield. Church officials estimated the attendance at 160,000, the largest to date of the four day congress which ends tomorrow.

Mrs. Clements Opposes Cuts in School Budget To Aid in Defense

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 25 (AP)—Mrs. G. R. Clements, president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, declared today that "no defense program ought to be allowed to touch any school budget."

Mrs. Clements addressed the state Parent-Teacher Congress in a symposium relating to a survey of Maryland schools. The conference is in its third day.

The recommendations of the Maryland School Survey Commission, Mrs. Clements said, "are the responsibility of the Parent-Teachers Association."

"The most important of these recommendations is that the program of the public schools should be extended to twelve years instead of the present eleven years," she stated.

Dr. Thomas C. Pullen, representing the State Department of Education, said his department "is in full accord with the twelve year program."

Henderson Opposes Higher Milk Prices

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Leon Henderson, price administrator, told Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today that he hoped that the farm chief would not find it necessary to grant the request of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association for an increase of forty-six cents a hundredweight in the price of milk.

Henderson, making known his views in response to a request from Wickard, said at the same time that he hoped that the secretary would not grant "similar requests for price increases from other markets under federal control unless it is imperative in order to maintain supplies."

Commenting that dairymen wanted to share in the general rise in income, Henderson said that it seemed to him that they could participate by selling a larger proportion of their milk in fluid form, through increased returns from surplus milk used in manufacturing products and through the opportunity to sell milk in larger quantities because of the rapidly increasing population in the Washington area.

German Consulate Destroys Records

BOSTON, June 25 (AP)—The German consulate here admitted tonight it was destroying "papers and records" a Boston fire department official said after he had visited the consulate while investigating neighbors' complaints that sparks and heavy smoke were pouring from the building's chimney.

Fire Lieutenant John Hoar said a well dressed man, who did not disclose his identity, answered the door when he rang the bell and upon being asked the cause of the smoke, replied:

"We are burning papers and records."

Hoar said that he "asked the man that this be stopped immediately on grounds that it was dangerous to houses in the neighborhood."

The consulate is on Mount Vernon street, on densely populated Beacon Hill.

"The man agreed that it would be stopped immediately," Hoar said. "He was very pleasant about it and there was no difficulty whatever."

Newspaper Guild Does Not Peril Free Press, Board Member Says

DETROIT, June 25 (AP)—A National Labor Relations Board member told the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) today that unionization of newspaper reporters was not detrimental to a free press.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Guild here, Edwin S. Smith of Washington said:

"The publisher is still free to dictate the policies of his newspaper and to achieve from his employees, organized or otherwise, that type of news gathering and reporting which constitutes his own particular niche in the general structure dominated by a free press."

"Whether a really free press can be based on the exercises of the property rights of individual publishers is another question. At least, that is the type of press which exists in our society, and experience has proved that the opposing by editorial employees of their own property interest in their jobs to the property interest of the employers has in no way made the press less free than it was before."

Great Successes

able to hold the German offensive. 4. All German operations were going forward on schedule.

The active participation of Rumania and Finland—together with the fact that Hungary had severed relations with Russia and Slovakia and gone to war against her—was declared to foreshadow the early erection of a complete eastern front against Bolshevism.

As to the Ukraine Baltic states—Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia—it was said that they had accepted Communism unwillingly and were happy to throw it off.

Even before the statement of the military spokesman promising great news there had come a confident promise that Adolf Hitler's military headquarters that "great successes can be expected."

It was the only reference to the Russian campaign in the high command's communiqué.

Germans Await Statement

Thus, for the fourth day the German people waited for detailed word, while the armies fought against Russia's millions of soldiers. Not a single village had been mentioned in official dispatches from the front.

Press reports from the front have indicated, however, that at least three giant columns are being driven into the Soviet—one out of East Prussia into the Baltic states; another south of Warsaw in old Poland into the center of the Red line; the third out of Rumania into Bessarabia.

Unquestionably, other German armies are describing, with their steel panzer tips, other angles in the German strategy of surprise and unorthodox isolation of enemy units.

The brevity of the German communiqués was explained on the ground that it would be foolhardy for the German military to give any detailed information which might indicate Nazi campaign plans to the Russian command.

"England Will Be Fooled"

A spokesman declared enthusiastically, "England will be fooled about Russia holding up in the east just as she was fooled in the belief that France would hold up in the west."

That the Germans are following the strategy of the French and Balkan campaigns by sending armored columns deep into enemy territory and far ahead of supporting troops was indicated in the spokesman's statement that the Nazis have advanced "surprisingly far in some places."

He declared emphatically, however, that Germany would not be caught napping and realized what masses would be thrown into action by the Soviet.

Not only on land and in the air but also at sea the German forces would have successes to report, he said, adding:

"The navy has been very successful and will reveal surprises tomorrow. Speed boats have shown their full value."

Russian planes have been shot down in great numbers, it was said, and there also would be a great surprise at the small German losses.

Many Russian Planes Downed

DNB, the official news agency, reported, for example, that a single German air fleet yesterday destroyed 103 Russian planes, and it also told of the destruction of 280 Russian tanks yesterday in two sectors.

Front reports sent back dispatches that the Russians were defending themselves stubbornly at some points but offering little resistance in other sectors of the Baltic-to-Black-Sea front.

One told how German troops driving into Lithuania from East Prussia advanced thirty miles in one day, "panting, soiled, thirsty and exhausted from the growing heat."

In the Lithuanian villages," this dispatch said, "the advancing soldiers were regarded with curiosity. Other correspondents told how small Russian Asiatics sat at their machine guns to the last."

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Experience with Hitler's war technique gives ominous significance to an official Nazi prediction of impending "great successes" against Russia on the flaming Eastern front.

It was datelined from the "Führer's headquarters" on that front. That makes it virtually a personal assurance from Hitler to his armies and the German people that a decisive victory is already in sight somewhere along the vast battle line.

The Fuehrer has not often risked his personal prestige on such military forecasts from the field. All too often subsequent events have borne him out when he did. And in this case there is much confirmatory evidence that Red armies are reeling backward under Nazi and Rumanian hammer blows from the Baltic to the Black Sea, but particularly in the center.

Hitler Believed in Poland

That Hitler is established in the field in the vicinity where he expects the most telling stroke to be delivered goes without saying. It is highly probable therefore that he is watching the battle from somewhere in Central-Eastern Poland, and close to the vast Pripiet river marshes.

They are the key to Russia's prime defense system in the west. Nazi-Soviet partition of Poland placed all of the 30,000 square miles of swamp lands of the Pripiet system in Russian hands. They span the old Russian-Polish border and from a powerful defensive bastion at the center of Russia's western frontier.

Unofficial Berlin reports indicate that Nazi advances both north and south of the Pripiet marshlands have encountered and overcome the greatest Red army concentrations. The roads and railway to Minsk and Moscow run north of the lowlands through level ground. The way to Kiev, far shorter than that to Moscow, skirts them to the south.

Great Victories Reported

Berlin spokesmen said they would soon give details of Nazi victories "baffling the imagination." That might mean that the road to Kiev has been forced, and that Hitler expects soon to go there in person to symbolize quick German conquest of the Ukraine.

The fall of Kiev would virtually trap all Russian forces in the Ukraine, outflank the Dniester, Bug and Dnepr rivers defense lines before they could even be manned in force.

By slicing through both north and south of the Pripiet marshes and reaching the Dnepr at Kiev in a matter of days, Hitler could achieve a great deal without risking greater advances. Economic resources of the Ukraine would be in his hands. With the Black Sea cleared of Red naval and air forces for lack of adequate bases, he could move against the Caucasus and Russian oil fields on the Caspian Sea.

Would Paralyze Russia. Even if Red forces escaping such a Nazi trap should fall back to reorganize and fight again, German seizure of the Ukraine alone would paralyze Russia as a factor in the British-Axis war.

It could also lessen Nazi food and ore problems and potentially equip Hitler for a long war with Britain. It might induce Japan and Spain to enter the war as Axis allies; and even sway Vichy to military collaboration with Berlin and Rome in Africa.

If Russia resorted immediately to retreat strategy, even surrendering the Ukraine step by step, it could avert a greater disaster. It may be already too late for that, however, if Nazi legions are even now menacing Kiev.

in this instance to issue a proclamation in order to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States, the president has no intention of issuing such a proclamation.

There were two other developments during the day bearing on United States aid to foreign nations:

Two Other Developments

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, disclosed that he was considering granting the British a loan to enable them "to pay for war supplies in this country without having to sell their American securities and investments at forced sale." Under this plan, he said, the British would put up their direct investments and securities as collateral.

During the day, word came from British sources that an American firm, the Merritt-Chapman and Scott Corporation of New York would soon start doing construction work in the British Isles, presumably on naval or air base installations.

The contract is strictly between the British government and the American firm, British officials said, and is not a part of the Lease-Lend program.

Brake Trouble Delays Test of the B-19

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 25 (AP)—Brake trouble for the second time caused postponement today of the maiden flight of the army's huge bomber, the B-19.

A statement by engineers representing the army and the Douglas Aircraft Company, which built the $3,500,000 bomber for the air corps, said "unsatisfactory conditions of grabbing in the huge brakes" had caused the decision to completely correct the source of the trouble before attempting the flight from Clover Field to March Field, seventy-five miles east of Santa Monica.

Engineers indicated the adjustments probably would be completed in a few days.

A previous delay in the takeoff was caused by brake trouble and parts had to be shipped from the east.

Turkish Steamer Sunk by Torpedo

NBC Reports 173 Passengers Lost in Submarine Attack

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The Turkish steamer Rifa carrying officers and men described as the "cream of the Turkish navy and mercantile marine" was torpedoed and sunk by an unidentified submarine tonight, Martin Agronsky, NBC reporter, said in a broadcast from Ankara.

He reported 173 of the 201 passengers on the ship were lost. Agronsky said 100 Turkish navy officers and men aboard the Rifa were enroute to England "to sail back to Turkey two destroyers and six submarines."

Survivors said the torpedo broke the ship in two and that only one lifeboat could be launched and in this twenty-eight passengers were saved, the commentator reported. The Turkish government had made arrangements with both Germany and Italy to insure safe passage of the vessel, he added.

School Fire Spreads Too Slow for Boy

BLAKELY, Ga., June 25 (AP)—Ted Whitcraft, a fourth grade pupil, stood watching the fire that destroyed the Blakely High school building recently.

"What do you think about the fire, Ted?" he was asked. "I guess it's all right," he said, somewhat sadly, "but our room hasn't caught fire yet."

hides, leather, machine tools and nickel. They have enough copper.

Men Not Available

There have been no calls for stronger blows on the continent than those dealt by the RAF. Numerous military experts have pointed out in the press that the Germans probably have withdrawn a considerable force from western Europe to cope with the large Russian army, but American army and marine corps observers declare that Britain has neither the equipment nor the trained men to make a landing large enough to distract the Germans.

Meanwhile, the high British source said, Britain is doing everything possible to complete the alignment against Germany and to solidify Russian-British cooperation.

Turkey was declared to be the largest diplomatic problem now before the British. The informant said he hoped that "the spectacle of the Nazis faced by Russia on the east and by ourselves with the United States close behind on the west" would swing the Turks back to Britain.

Something for Britain But Not for Us

IF Britain chooses to pass on some of the help to Russia, that is for Britain to decide, Mark Sullivan observes in his dispatch appearing on this page.

Right. In view of the attitude of the Communists toward this country and their perpetration of sabotage and Fifth Column activities here, both of which may be expected to continue as in the past regardless of the invasion of Russia by Hitler, there is no call for the United States to hitch up in any alliance, or lease-lending, with Joe Stalin. More especially is this so in view of another attitude, namely, that of the American people toward the Stalin ideology and all its nefarious works.

There are occasions when principle counts more than materialistic considerations, and this is one of them. This country feels strongly with regard to the necessity for aid to Britain. If cold necessity forces Britain to aid Russia in its resistance to the Nazi aggressors, that aid can be given without gratuitous interference on the part of the United States.

This nation cannot afford to risk any commitments or alliances with the slippery Stalin. He would undertake any piece of treachery in the whole category in order to serve his own ends. The German invasion was simply a case of one liar beating the other into treachery. Americans, of course, hope that Stalin can lick Hitler or at least successfully resist him long enough to give Britain time in which to round out its useful supremacy in the air. But beneath the necessity for Russian defense lie the fundamentals of the Russian ideology, which seek ultimate destruction of the democratic-capitalist system, and Americans are as wary of that as they are of a rattlesnake.

Anyway, this country has a sufficiently big job on its hands in getting its armament production into full swing without taking on new obligations in any fighting between European dictators.

Food Hoarding Not a Good Price Remedy

SENSIBLE ADVICE is that which was given by Thomas L. Keech in the weekly chamber of commerce broadcast against the hoarding of foodstuffs. His argument was well grounded by official statistics showing that living costs have been so far held to a reasonable figure, and experience has shown that unreasonable fear that they may not be only serves to accentuate the very danger hoarding is designed to meet.

The most recent experience of the kind was with sugar, and it is still fresh within the memory of the people of Cumberland as well as elsewhere. Notwithstanding the fact that there were plentiful stocks of sugar in the country, panic seized many householders as the result of war scares and flimsy rumors, and everybody rushed to the groceries to buy what sugar they could regardless of existing needs. We all know what happened to sugar prices. With a scarcity created by an extravagant buying, prices naturally soared and many persons spent several cents a pound unnecessarily for sugar. Warnings against the folly of succumbing to baseless fears sounded in the press and the speedy movement of sugar stocks soon brought the people to their senses and when the hoarding eased up so did the prices.

The ancient law of supply and demand continues to work as of yore and if soaring prices of commodities are to be averted it is necessary to curb the demand in accordance with the available supply. When there is a real scarcity of supply, that is difficult but in the case of sugar there was no such scarcity except that occasioned by senseless fears that there would be.

The Communists In Government

AT LONG LAST, as the English say, the Roosevelt administration has commenced to move against the Communists and other radical riff-raff who have seized control of a part of American organized labor.

But before we throw our hats into the air with full-lunged cheers, we would like to see the New Dealers start moving against the Communists within their very own ranks—Communists and Communist sympathizers who hold places of power and trust in the Roosevelt administration. This has not yet happened and until it does we shall not be convinced that the New Deal has washed its hands of Moscow's henchmen.

Out of many, many cases which could be cited, but two may be mentioned. David Lasser, former president of the Workers' Alliance, several months ago was placed on the WPA payroll at $4,400 a year. Lasser is notorious for his Communist sympathies. The Dies committee has shown his Workers' Alliance was inspired in Moscow. He, himself, on expenses taken from the dues relief workers paid out of their measly allowances, several years ago journeyed to Moscow by special invitation to attend a celebration of the Red Revolution. He has been a particularly annoying agitator.

Yet this man, instead of being blacklisted by the government, is placed on the payroll at $4,400 a year while western Democrats complain bitterly to Ed Flynn that they cannot get jobs for the party faithful. It seems a Communist sympathizer has greater influence with the New Deal than any genuine Democrat.

What is worse, the Lasser appointment was stoutly defended by Howard Hunter, WPA administrator, who refused to fire him in response to criticisms in Congress. In order to get Lasser off the payroll the House voted 131 to 88 that no part of the WPA appropriation could be used to pay his salary. Whether the Senate will concur remains to be seen.

The second case we have in mind is that of Bernard Ades, who in 1934 was the Communist candidate for governor of Maryland. Quite by accident a Maryland congressman discovered him on the payroll of the United States Housing Administration at a salary of $3,200 a year. Certainly it was clear this man was a Communist. How he got on the payroll appears a mystery.

This was discovered more than a week before this was written. The only action that has been taken so far is a request by the USHA chief for an investigation by the Justice department. Meanwhile Ades has not even been suspended.

Yet the New Deal, carrying water on both shoulders, rails at labor leaders who fail to purge their ranks of Communists!

The Real Question That Russia Will Answer

BULLETINS from the new theater of war are giving us a fresh batch of conflicting claims, and we shall all have to do a lot of guessing until the fighting lines change substantially. We read with relish a report from Moscow that several hundred Nazi planes have been downed only to come upon a report from Berlin detailing the destruction of an equal or greater number of warplanes.

The big question at hand is whether the Russia of Stalin can inflict sufficient damage on the Hitler war machine to weaken it and start it on the downhill road or even to hold it in check for a few months. The world is anxiously waiting for the answer to this fateful question.

The Russia of Czar Nicholas inflicted heavy casualties on the Germans and the Austrians in the first days of the last war, but these temporary successes did not weaken the Kaiser's war machine and Russia, out of the war a year and a half, played no part in the Allied victory.

Whether history will repeat, or whether the Russia of today will be able to hold the German army at bay somewhere within its borders and thus prevent full concentration of the full might of the Nazi scourge elsewhere, only unfolding events will reveal. Modern warfare differs radically from that of the World War and the answer to the question will depend upon the supply of planes and tanks Russia has and, more particularly, upon the quality of its military leadership, which was so severely depleted by the political purges to which the Stalin dictatorship resorted in order to keep in control.

Amateurish, Practical Or Just Modern?

OREN ROOT, JR., the young New Yorker who organized and headed the Associated Willkie Clubs in the last presidential campaign, is back into print as the result of a rather novel announcement.

It will be recalled that Root's enthusiastic and unorthodox methods got into the hair of many elder folk, who complained that he didn't understand the ways of practical politicians.

Now Root is notifying contributors to the Willkie movement that he didn't spend all the money they sent him. To get rid of it, he offers them a choice. Either they can leave their shares of the surplus to finance a small New York office for former Willkie clubs which, under different names, are carrying on various good government activities; or they can write in and get seven percent of their contributions refunded in cash.

One commentator says this proves that Root remains an amateur, despite his experience, and even yet doesn't understand the ways of practical politicians. Still, it may be that the modern politician is becoming more honest than those of other days. If that is so, another old saying is happily due for the discard.

A Berlin dispatch says many German racing stables are giving German names to race horses "imported" during the winter from "abroad." In the old days in the West they used to hang horse thieves who changed brands as well as those who didn't.

The Scared Cat

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The Scared Cat wishes he'd never been born. The Scared Cat may look like a normal, strong, brave human being, but he's scared of life and everything in it.

Marshall Maslin

His blood turns to water at the thought of making a decision, and even after he's made the decision he worries about the outcome. Sometimes he's born a Scared Cat. Sometimes he's made into one. In either case, he helps the process along with all the cunning, the ingenuity, that's in him. . . . Myself, I think he enjoys the trembles, he likes that shivery feeling of being afraid.

Trouble is, joy has been left out of him, out of the recipe, out of his specifications for being a human being.

And joy is the best part of us human creatures. A man (or a woman) who is NOT a Scared Cat rather likes being in a jam.

It gives him a chance to discover in the heat and turmoil of conflict whether he is what he ought to be. Gives him the opportunity to say: "Let's see if I can work my way out of this business; see if I am as dumb, as weak, as cowardly, as ineffective, as I MAY be. Let's see, once and for all, what I'm made of!"

There's a kind of joy in that and sometimes out of such trouble a man wins self-respect, a joyful recognition of what he really is.

I used to know a man who told me that to him, forever, the war was a great help. . . . "I went into it," he said, "scared of a lot of things. I was hungry, tired, discouraged, furious, and I suffered like hell. Sometimes, even now, I have horrible dreams of what happened to me in that war. I hated it and I still hate it. I think war is a shabby price for the little men get out of it. . . . But I did learn that, though I was often afraid, I was not a coward. And that knowledge has not ceased to help me."

Thus the man learned he was no Scared Cat. And it's great to get that suspicion out of one's nature.

Treachery Abroad Stresses Defense, Gen. Johnson Says

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, June 25.—What a Paul Jones country dance of international change of partners. And now many of the old slogans and much of the old propaganda must be turned inside-out and faced to the rear.

About "faithful little Finland," over whom we were so recently slobbering in emotional ecstasy, forgiving debts and forwarding funds, it is now a question whether she isn't an ally of unspeakable Adolf and doubtless our contributions to her are aiding the German cause.

Our great crusade for the democracies and against the "aggressor" nations will now include a fight for an autocracy no less bloody, no less deceitful, no less aggressive than Hitler's Nazidom. It is certainly no high-class company we are about to keep. If we have no more regard for principle and the high purposes we profess, how are we any less hypocritical, any more dependable and honorable, any less expedient and tricky than they?

There is a real problem here for us. There isn't the slightest doubt in the world, as every well-informed observer in Washington knows, that most of our labor obstructions at key points in industrial war-production have been inspired and accomplished by Communist cells and influences infiltrated into our labor organizations. Our government is fully aware of that.

The devilish ingenuity in engineering these attacks on mobilization of industry by concentration on bottlenecks have hurt us as effectively at this stage as would the loss of lives and munitions in battle at a later stage. It was war against us within our own boundaries.

How can we now turn about overnight and espouse the cause of our treacherous enemies within, unless we too have dipped so deep into the hellish fluid of 1941 international treason and dishonesty that the great American tradition of honor in foreign relations is also in the ash can, together with many American traditions of domestic democracy, honor and faith in promises.

Good Monitors Lost
Perhaps the untimely death of Senator Pat Harrison, the illness of Cordell Hull, the removal to the supreme court of Senator Jimmy Byrnes are other unfortunate landmarks in our progress away from what we have been taught from childhood were American principles in this regard. With a few exceptions, they were the last of the old guard of democratic constitutionalism devoted to a belief that in politics, as well as business, that most uncompromising of realists, Cervantes, was right when he said in "don quixote": "Honesty is the best policy."

It is not fair to be too harsh with nations fighting for their lives. Finland has been despoiled by Russia and possibly she thinks this is a chance for revenge. She might remember that Hitler always betrays and swallows his allies. Let's hope she does.

It is hard to speak even a mollifying word for Russia. Communist efforts to impede our industrial efforts were not so much intended to help Hitler as to soften up the peace has been brought to one of the nation's largest and most important enterprises at a time when peace is imperative, that the ranks have been closed at a vulnerable spot where they have too long been torn apart by conflict. This happy fact overshadows all other comment.

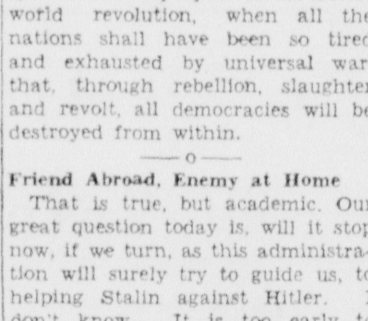

Without question, the agreement is a milestone in the history of American labor relations. For better or for worse, it marks the end of an epoch—that of the unfettered individualist in industry who believed in his unqualified right and ability to organize and operate his business irrespective of social forces which came into play and regardless of new policies of government developed to meet them.

Henry Ford was the last of the great individualists. He will always be respected for his early vision of mass production, made possible through efficiency and high wages and for his sheer mechanical genius. In recent years that respect diminished because of the queer quirks in which his individualism displayed itself—his tolerance of certain groups, his rigorous business practices, and his expressed defiance of United States foreign policy in the current war.

A good many Americans may doubt the ultimate wisdom of Ford employees who voted for the C. I. O. as their bargaining agent. But few will doubt their rights, as Americans, to make that choice.

Friend Abroad, Enemy at Home
That is true, but academic. Our great question today is, will it stop now, if we turn, as this administration will surely try to guide us, to helping Stalin against Hitler. I don't know. It is too early to form an opinion about anything. But, if it doesn't stop, wouldn't

SOME PEOPLE DON'T CARE WHEN THEY GRAB A BEAR BY THE TAIL

Aid to Britain Continues Imperative To Meet a Future Attack by Hitler

WASHINGTON, June 25.—In a whirlwind of swirling surmises, one inference is clear and tenable. If Hitler thought he could conquer Britain, he would have gone ahead and conquered her. This inference is tenable, even though the mind whose actions we deal with is as unguessable as Hitler's. When Hitler turned to attack Stalin, it meant that he knew that, under existing conditions, he could not conquer Britain.

In this is hope. Perhaps "hope" is not the best word to use, because people tend to put too much reliance on hope, and to relax when they think they have it. Let us say, rather, we know Hitler's estimate of British power to resist. In this knowledge lies assurance for the present.

But it may be that, among the reasons Hitler attacked Stalin, was a wish to create better conditions, in which to attack Britain later on. For this assumption, there is much reason. By attacking Stalin first, Hitler, assuming he succeeds, may get many advantages, for a future attack on Britain. He gets oil and food supplies. He gets immunity from the possibility of an enemy on his rear. He gets immunity from the possibility that Stalin might beat him to the act of treachery to their alliance.

Must Become Strong
To go farther along this line would be merely to add more to the swirl of surmise. But one thing we can say. Britain, and the United States, have been given a breathing spell—a breathing spell they did not expect. They should now arm, and arm, and arm. It is possible there may be additional things they or either of them, should do. But whatever else, they should make themselves strong—unconquerable by Hitler in any condition that Hitler may be able to create.

There are some facts that remain unchanged, and some that are unchangeable. We have promised help to Britain. This help of course will be given, in honor and in self-interest. We will be helped in our thinking if we remember that it was for self-interest that we promised the help to England. True, many Americans had additional motives—among others, well-justified sympathy for Britain, and equally justified hate for Hitler. But the motive of national self-interest was the one that was able to justify the help we promised, in the eyes of a sufficiently large majority of our people. Once the help was promised, the additional motive of honor arose. We must continue the help, and enlarge it.

Reasons Continue
All the reasons for making the promise of help continue to exist. Nothing that has happened reduces the interest we have in seeing Britain successfully resist Hitler. No difference is made by the fact that, after Hitler attacked Russia, Britain promised to help Russia. About that, Britain judges for herself. When we made the promise of help to Britain, we did not commit ourselves to all of Britain's alliances, understandings and policies then existing. Neither are we bound by any new commitment she makes now.

Factographs
German prisoners in some English internment camps have been permitted to establish arbitration systems for settlement of disputes among themselves.

Some fifty-five trades are taught in the United States Navy today.

The nation's oldest summer theater is at Skowhegan, Me.

The first 4-H club was organized twenty-five years ago.

The Tennessee Valley Authority employs 20,000 men.

We shall continue to give help to Britain, help that includes a high degree of co-operation. If Britain chooses to pass on some of the help to Russia, that is for Britain to decide.

Our own decision about Russia involves considerations quite different from Britain's, considerations difficult and acutely dangerous. The administration will be wise to make this decision squarely on the ground of principle. About Russia, many Americans feel strongly, and their feeling will not change overnight.

Candor Necessary

This is, of all times, a time to be candid, and fair and tolerant. Lack of candor is a large cause of the world's ills. And if we in America are candid, some Americans are called upon to make an admission to other Americans. The present turn in the European war justifies some of the position the isolationists have held all along. Part of the isolationists' position was that, if we intervened in the war, we would involve ourselves in unforeseen complications. Well, the most unforeseen possible complication has now occurred. And if we are completely candid we will admit that the present unforeseen event opens up the possibility of others now equally unforeseeable. To admit this frankly will promote the unity that America needs.

But what if we had taken the other course? Can the isolationists claim that the consequences of their course would be comfortably limited to the foreseeable? Can they say there would be no unforeseeable and disagreeable consequences if, from the beginning, we had followed a course which might result in Britain's falling and Hitler's dominating the world?

Super-Highway Extension

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

Just a year ago Pennsylvania opened its great turnpike to public travel. The nation's first real super-highway has proved to be very popular, and is a paying concern. Now the Keystone State has authorized the extension of the turnpike from its present terminus, near Pittsburgh, to the Ohio or West Virginia state lines.

There has already been some agitation in Ohio to have this state build a connecting turnpike patterned after the Pennsylvania road, and crossing Ohio from east to west. It would be a logical development, if not now, at least at some future date.

Ohio ranks third among the states in the number of tourists. Most of them are transients because this state is a natural pathway between the east and west. Many now travel the Pennsylvania Turnpike and they would continue to make use of a similar superhighway across Ohio.

The cost of construction would, of course, be high. It is estimated at more than $200,000,000 and would require legislative action. But if the success of the Pennsylvania project is a reliable yardstick, and there is no reason to believe that it is not, the toll charges should soon pay for the improvement. It is quite possible that federal funds now being spent on military highways might be obtained to partially defray the cost. At any rate the proposal deserves consideration.

Morning Motto
It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.—BENJAMIN DISRAELI.

Song by Payne Is World's Greatest Melody Written

By EDWIN C. HILL

When a wandering hurricane from the Caribbean broke savagely upon the Long Island shore two or three years ago, tragedies occurred too painful for the telling. A nature showed her cruellest side to men, women and children—all so helpless, so defenseless and so weak.

But the story was not all grim. Edwin C. Hill and dreadful. When the great storm broke, it brought wide devastation to old and beautiful Easthampton as to all the other Hamptons. Grand old trees it had taken more than a century to grow, were broken, uprooted, stripped and ruined. Lovely beaches became raw sand dunes. Buildings collapsed like the houses of cards children build. Everything was down, flattened or washed away in an old quarter of Easthampton except one house, a house where a very celebrated man had lived more than 100 years ago.

Much like Shelley
He was much like the poet Shelley, this slender fastidious, wistful man. He was so precocious that, at fifteen, he had established a theatrical review. He went on the stage and made a fair success, though not nearly so great as in the society of the day. His brilliance and great personal charm won him the friendship of Henry Brevoort, Washington Irving and many other distinguished figures of the New York of that time. He appeared on the stage in England, at first very successful and prosperous, then downed by misfortune, in debt for thousands of dollars, and a prisoner in the old Fleet prison, where most men left hope behind. He wandered in Italy, his circumstances improved, but not happy.

One bright day he heard an Italian peasant girl singing in the fields as she reaped, singing, as Browning's Pippa sang, with her heart in her throat, and the melody haunted him for months to come.

And one dull October day when the skies were gray over London, but no grayer than his mood, he was seated by his window as the crowds swirled by. The peasant girl's simple melody came back to him and words formed in his mind to suit the melody. He was not penniless, stranded and homeless. He was a fairly successful playwright with excellent prospects ahead. But he was depressed at the time he wrote the words.

Far from Home
He was lonesome. He had strayed far from home. There came to him memories of the day he had spent in happy childhood with a mother he adored in a humble cottage at Easthampton, there on Long Island. Sitting at his window he jotted down the notes of the tune he had heard the peasant girl sing, penned the words of the lyric, and sent both to the composer, Henry E. Bishop, who produced the air which so admirably fits the words.

Before death came to this man in Tunis, Africa, in 1852, he knew his song was a success. But he never lived to see the full success it was to achieve. He never knew that the pretty little song that people liked so well when it first appeared 118 years ago, in 1833, was to make him immortal, and that people, with full hearts, would sing that song more than any other ever written. He could not know that the world was would revive his song in the hearts of young men turning their backs on loved homes to go into battle for all that makes life dear.

Fame Is Higher
Today his fame is higher—greater than ever and it is still growing. For his name was John Howard Payne who was borne in the house so miraculously preserved in the great hurricane, born on June 9, 150 years ago, and the song he wrote was inspired by a wanderer's boyhood memories of the little home by the sea at Easthampton, the little home that even a raging storm would not touch, that a hurricane passed by—John Howard Payne's "Home, Sweet Home."

A Process That Works Smoothly
From the Christian Science Monitor
Beginning July 10 it will cost less than heretofore to make long-distance telephone calls in the United States. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company in negotiation with the Federal Communications Commission has worked out a series of reductions calculated to save $14,000,000 annually to telephone users.

This announcement, quickly made, is an indication that the regulatory processes set up by the Federal Communications act are working smoothly and with effect. The new rates are also, and perhaps even more significantly, an index of the efficiency of the privately operated communication system which can absorb such a reduction of rates at a time of advancing prices. They partly explain why the United States has approximately half of the 41,000,000 telephones in the world and why Americans make twice as many long-distance calls as the inhabitants of Japan, Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, France, and Denmark combined.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE BLUFFED. PLENTY OF No Trump contracts are made because the opening leader is afraid to start the suit he had bid. He fears that the opponent's bidding of No Trump after his suit call shows the suit so well stopped that to lead it would be futile. As a consequence, he leads something else, and so loses a valuable unit of timing. If his own suit is of five cards, he should usually open it when it contains the ace or any two of the top four honors.

West was frightened away from leading his own suit, fearing South was loaded for diamonds, and started the club 6. The A won this, and East returned his diamond 10 to the J. If West won this, his suit would be dead, so he ducked. South then led the club

4 to the 10, cashed the K and then ran three tricks in each major, making his contract.

Just notice what a difference if West had led his diamonds. Remember, the main reason for making the sort of opening bid he did was to make No Trump play hard for the enemy if North became declarer, since East would lead diamonds. If he had not been scared out of leading his diamond 4, the J would have won the 10. Declarer then would have had to try for breaks in spades and hearts. When both of those failed, he would have had to lead a club from his hand. Whether he played the 10 or K from dummy, East would win and return a diamond, producing four tricks in that suit and setting the contract.

Americans Described As "Sissies"

NEWARK, N. J., June 25 (AP)—An industrial health conference here heard Americans described as "sissies" so lacking in pep that they soon will have to take daily rations of vitamin tablets to produce more energy.

Dr. Victor G. Heiser, medical consultant to the National Association of Manufacturers, told the conference, sponsored by the association and the Newark Industrial Health Clinic of the Employers Association of North Jersey, that America must "toughen up" to meet the demands of defense.

"It is high time," he asserted, "for Americans to develop some of the brawn of their pioneer forebears and quit being dainty, steam-heated, rubber-tired, beauty-rested, pampered sissies softened by a thousand and one civilized gadgets and contraptions."

According to the Census bureau, 4,600,000 tons of cane sugar are processed in the United States in a year.

BREEDING BETTER HORSE- RADISH

Although horseradish root is perennial and will continue to grow year after year, the best quality can be obtained only when the roots are replanted frequently or when it is treated as an annual. This can be done easily by trimming off some of the small lateral roots when the plants are dug up for use.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, use pieces about a quarter-inch thick and cut four to five inches

Actor to Landlord Via the Racetrack

NEW YORK, (AP)—Actor Victor Moore had this explanation for turning up in Jackson Heights at the controls of a steam shovel: "Some years ago a former actor turned real estate broker and tried to sell me a piece of land. I wasn't much interested, but he told me he had a real tip on a race horse. He said he'd let me in if I'd promise that if I won I'd use the money for a down payment on the lot. I did. The horse did. So I did, and now we're building a bus terminal on it."

Moore kept his gloves on just long enough to move one shovelful of dirt.

Farmer Is Suspicious Of Parachutist

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 25 (P)—A Florida farmer is taking no chances on "enemy parachutists." Aviation Cadet Charles P. Canham, ordered to "ball out" by his flying instructor when their plane was caught in a sudden storm, landed safely, sought a telephone to report to the naval air station.

The first man he met, he said, was a farmer with a shotgun who wanted to know who he was and why he jumped out.

P. S. the instructor made a safe emergency landing.

THE DAILY STORY

SENIOR PLAY

To Faint or Not to Faint—That Was the Question.
But to Marsha It Was More Than a Question.

By RUTH FEIREISEL

Milton Baxter groaned and ran one hand through his hair. In the other he nervously rattled a worn script.

"Miss Reynolds, have you never before in your life fainted?"

A blonde head appeared slowly from behind the footlights, attached to a slim body that struggled into sitting position.

"Why, Mr. Baxter, now that you mention it, I don't believe I ever have."

"You Look Like a Tree!"

Milton Baxter silently gnashed his teeth, just as he had been doing every spring for the last 15 years. Directing a senior play involved more physical and mental strain than polishing a first-rate Broadway show.

Not that he had to produce this amateur play. It was more than that. His directing the senior play at Omacha U. had now become an established tradition. The possibility that he might disappoint Miss Haggard had never occurred to anyone, much less to Milton Baxter. Miss Haggard, who was head of the dramatic department, was also his wife's sister, all of which resulted in her being a most influential member of the faculty.

"Perhaps, then, you've witnessed such procedure in someone else?" he went on doggedly.

Marsha Reynolds shook her head slowly as she squinted at him through the glaring lights.

"No, sir."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

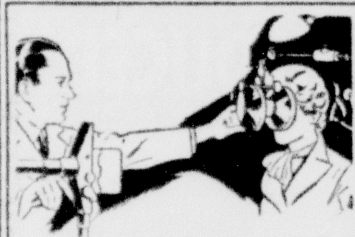

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 quarts a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Marsha, "look like a tree being felled by a woodcutter's ax."

The moment had come.

Baxter, in one swift movement, dashed the script to the floor, clinched his pipe between his teeth, and with the piercing cries of an offended leading lady in his ears, stomped up the middle aisle and out of the auditorium.

The blue lights that misted the stage cast a mournful glow on the third and last act of the tragedy, "Vengeance."

Milton Baxter sat quite unknown in the first row balcony. Later on his work would be properly acknowledged. Miss Haggard would slip out from between the heavy velvet curtains, call graciously upon him, and then finally the cast would present him with some token of appreciation. Everyone, yes, everyone would applaud, and tomorrow would find him on his way back to Broadway—to peace and quiet.

But now he was viewing the results of his labor. They were, he reflected, neither disappointing nor exhilarating. At the last moment he had decided to cut the "faint" entirely, dropping the curtain as Marsha Reynolds stood with her back to the audience. He still felt a little disappointment at that, but anything better than a fine dramatic finish, comically done.

He came out of his reverie just as Marsha, enacting the pathetic Claudia, received news of her husband's death. She held a telegram loosely in her hand, calling weakly, "Gerald, Gerald."

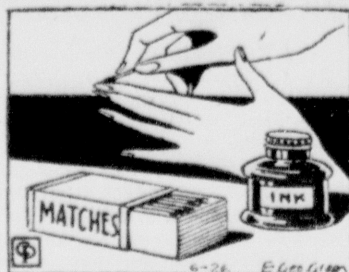

"Sounds flat," thought Baxter. Marsha now slowly walked up-stage to the mahogany table, and leaned against it.

"Great Scott, she should be going back."

Suddenly Marsha turned to the audience, glancing wildly about. Then as her eyes rolled to the back of her head, she slowly sank to the floor with a low moan.

The curtain fell on the last act of the Senior Play. The audience sat unmoving for a moment, then as one unit, burst into a wild applause that surged to the roof.

"Bravo! Bravo!" shouted the voice in the first row balcony. "I didn't know she had it in her."

On the stage behind the heavy curtains that muffled the sound of the audience, a small group stood around the figure lying on the floor. Miss Haggard was administering smelling salts.

Tears streamed down Marsha's face as she turned to Miss Haggard.

"Oh, Miss Haggard, I simply forgot about Mr. Baxter's cutting the fainting. We'd practiced it so often that way, I didn't think of it until I leaned against the table and then I can't remember what I did. "All I know is I've simply ruined the Senior Play!"

Explosion Injures Three Men at Savage River Dam Project

Junior Chamber
Outlines Plans
For FrostburgBenjamin Myers Presides at Meeting at Big Savage Inn

FROSTBURG, June 25—E. Benjamin Myers, recently-elected president of the Frostburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, presided at a dinner and business meeting of the Jaycees at Big Savage Inn tonight.

After introducing the other new officers, Myers outlined plans for 1941-42, which he said included larger and better billboards advertising the town on the Eastern and Western entrances, establishment of an overlook on Big Savage mountain, co-operating with school officials in beautifying the Beall high school grounds and continuing litigation for sidewalks to the miners' hospital.

Plan Insurance Survey

J. Edgar MacMannis reported that his committee is making plans for a survey of the community with a view to securing lower insurance rates. This committee, he said, was also studying the water distribution system and would make a report later.

Ray Layman submitted a report on the chambers' finger-printing activities of the past year and said plans are being made to resume work, particularly among school children, and have the prints sent to Washington for the civil identification files in the F. B. I. offices.

Other matters discussed were a coming ordinance for Frostburg and co-operation with the American Legion in nation-wide aircraft warning service and in other home defense activities.

Charles N. Hill, chairman of the local committee, reported arrangements are being made for a joint outing at New Germany with Junior Chambers of Commerce of Cumberland, Frostburg, Oakland and Meyersdale, Pa.

Want More Members

Robert Kenney discussed prospects for increasing the local chambers' membership. As an aid to attracting new members, it was decided to reduce the annual dues, effective July 1.

The Jaycees refused to take action on the request by City Clerk Roland A. Lemmert that they pass a resolution either for or against certain fireworks. It was decided, however, to carry on plans for a community display on the Beall high grounds the night of July 4, providing the public subscribes sufficient funds.

Arthur Rowe reported that the establishment of a N. Y. A. machine shop was receiving the attention of a committee of which he is chairman. He was instructed to contact county N. Y. A. officials with a view of having a building erected on the city lot at the corner of Park avenue and Center street, which has already been excavated.

Other officers present were: Ralph M. Race, state president; Walter Mackey, state secretary; Charles N. Hill, first vice-president of the Frostburg chamber; Robert Kenney, secretary; Arthur Rowe, treasurer, and Ray Layman, national councilor.

IS RECOVERED

OAKLAND, June 25—The body of John Nebesney, 18, member of Swallow Falls CCC camp, was recovered this morning from the Youghiogheny river, about one mile from the point where he had gone swimming last Thursday afternoon while the river was at near flood stage.

Efforts of fellow enrollees to find his body during the following days while the water was still high, were unsuccessful. Cecil Ramsey, a camp foreman, and CCC youth, found the body stretched on rock and it showed signs of having been beaten against rocks by the swift current. His remains were taken to his home at Scottsdale, Pa.

Graduates Facing Study in Economy, Dr. Myers Asserts

Youth, upon Landing Job, Should Undergo Physical Examination

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
More youths finishing high school and college will find jobs this summer than for many years. What will they do with their money? Most, unfortunately, will spend it on luxuries such as an automobile and costly clothes and on having a good time.

Wiser youths will not do so. They will limit their spending on luxuries. Some will help their families. Practically all who feel a family responsibility and are not too selfish will choose to pay board if living at home. Most wise youths will give a small portion at least to church and welfare causes. From this giving they will get spiritual and character values.

One of the wisest things for a youth to do on landing a job, if he has not had sufficient funds before, is to see a doctor for a thorough physical examination, then a dentist to check on his teeth.

Use Money Wisely
Then many a wise youth beginning to earn will set aside a definite portion for self-improvement, for furthering his education. Just see what it would mean to the future of the average youth if, instead of buying a car, he were to spend the same amount on night courses in high school or college, or on a good home study course by correspondence, in case such schools are not available.

Any youth who denies himself luxuries, in order to improve his talents, not only grows in this direction but in character.

Furthermore, the youth looking forward to marriage and a family of his own would do well to deny himself some luxuries now.

Racket Correspondence Schools
More than ever before, there are all sorts of false but lurid appeals to youth just graduating from high school by certain unscrupulous correspondence or home study schools. In spite of all the warnings by school authorities, hundreds of youths waste their time and money on them.

There are also several very reliable correspondence schools which are rendering a great service. As a boy on the farm I once took a course from such a fine school and got much out of it.

Last year I referred to the pamphlet put out by the State Department of Education of the State of Wisconsin warning youth against "phony" correspondence schools, telling them how to recognize them, and how to locate good correspondence schools. Recently the senior students of the high schools of New York City were given a copy of a six-page pamphlet entitled, "Traps for the Unwary," prepared by the counseling service for Juniors of the Westchester County Children's Association.

Consult Vocational Advisers
It urges students to consult vocational advisers in high schools, the State Department of Education or the Federal Trade Commission. (In most parts of our country the person to talk to is the high school principal.) This pamphlet warns against schools that "offer free books or supplies, or partial scholarships . . . claim they are making a special offer for a limited number of students . . . extravagant claims about salaries paid to school graduates . . . or vast opportunities in new and growing industries . . . false representations that you have been recommended to the school by your high school principal."

The students are warned of advertisements with misleading headings and extravagant promises.

B. & O. Worker Is Injured in Fall From Coal Car

Clarence Townbridge, 44, of Independence, W. Va., a B. & O. brakeman, suffered facial abrasions and a right leg injury early yesterday morning when he fell from a coal car while at work.

Townbridge was taken to Allegheny hospital and admitted for observation. His condition was satisfactory last night.

grube from untreated soil was compared with the total from treated soil. There was a kill of sixty-eight per cent in the treated more as a result of the disease introduction.

Job Will Require Year

But the job of making the disease effective is a "big one and will require possibly four or five years," according to Dr. Langford. The disease is effective for killing grubs, he said, but before satisfactory results can be obtained in any community it will be necessary to get the organism thoroughly established in all of the land.

Describing the inoculation of land against Japanese beetle grubs as similar to inoculating land so that alfalfa or some of the other legumes will grow, the entomologist pointed out that "one of the disadvantages of getting thorough inoculation of the land with the disease organism is that a fairly heavy infestation of grubs must be had before the disease can effectively increase and spread."

In other words, it is necessary to have more grubs in order to have less grubs.

Project Is Co-Operative

The Allegheny county Japanese beetle retardation program is conducted through a co-operative agreement between the county commissioners, the University of Maryland and the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine of the United States department of agriculture, with the National Youth Administration furnishing a large part of the labor for the project. NYA youths have already distributed more than half the beetle traps and expect to complete the distribution this week.

The county program is part of a state-wide campaign against the beetle which last year resulted in the trapping of 275 tons of beetles in the state, according to the university's department of entomology, which also reports that to date, approximately 500 colonies of "Tipnia" wasp parasites and 500,000 nematodes have been released and the only way disease put on more than 10,000 properties.

Director of the state program is Dr. Ernest N. Cory, state entomologist, with Dr. Langford as co-ordinator.

After a registrant has answered the questions and signed his name to the registration certificate signed by the registrar, he must have his certificate in his personal possession at all times, Col. Stanwood points out, as under the Selective Service regulations failure to possess the certificate or to show it to authorized persons constitutes a violation of the regulations and is to be considered prima facie evidence of failure to register.

Besley Protests CCC Forest Camp Program

BALTIMORE, June 25. (AP)—State Forester F. W. Besley today lodged with Maryland's Congressional delegation a protest over what he termed the "discrimination" of the Civilian Conservation Corps in abandoning forest camps in the state.

Besley said he had been notified that two of the six camps at work on Maryland state forests would be abandoned at the end of June. He said that represents a cut of one-third, as there are now six camps devoted to forest conservation work under the supervision of the forestry department.

In the nation as a whole, Besley said, CCC strength is being reduced by only about sixteen per cent.

The state forester sent telegrams and letters of protest to Senators Tydings and Radcliffe and to Representatives David J. Ward, William P. Cole, Jr., Lansdale G. Sasser and Mrs. Katharine Edgar Byrd, in whose districts the camps are located.

"Our CCC camps are doing work on the state forests of outstanding value to the people of Maryland," Besley said today, "and to close one of them at this time would seriously impede progress in this very necessary development."

350 29th Division Men To Join Air Corps

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., June 25. (AP)—It will be flying instead of walking for 350 men from the Twenty-ninth division.

The division today began granting discharges to enable soldiers to re-enlist for three years in the air service. Approximately 500 of the 700 division men who applied were held eligible to take the air service physical tests, now under way at a recruiting sub-station here, and it is expected that 350 of these will be accepted.

Those accepted must be high school graduates or have completed at least eight years of schooling and passed the general army classification test with a score of 100 or better.

Some of the men will have a chance to become pilots but there are various jobs for which they may qualify, such as mechanics, aerial photographers, clerks or riggers.

Those becoming pilots will be known as flight sergeants and will not be commissioned officers.

Frederick Assured Of a Quiet Fourth

FREDERICK, Md., June 25. (AP)—The kids probably will complain bitterly. Nevertheless, the noise and clatter most likely will be missing from Frederick's observance of Independence Day.

The city's anti-fireworks ordinance, recently adopted by the mayor and board of aldermen, is more drastic than the regulations promulgated by State Insurance Commissioner John E. Connum. The local ruling supersedes the state commissioner's regulations.

Judge Eli Frank in Baltimore City Circuit Court ruled that Connum cannot enforce that part of his regulations relating to "sparklers and other fireworks which attain only visible and non-explosive displays by combustion." He held, however, that the banning of "explosive" displays by the state does not apply to any county or municipality which has adopted laws covering the same matter.

In Frederick's ordinance the term "combustible" is used. City Attorney Edward J. Smith interprets that to apply to the sale or discharge of any fireworks except in special cases.

New Army with an Old Problem

It's a proud new Army that America has today...

But it brings up a problem as old as the roll of martial drums—the problem of morale.

More than a million boys have been taken from home towns full of familiar faces, friendly greetings, open doors, and plumped down in a totally strange new world. There may be no large city within many miles of camp—just a town of a few thousand, where hearts are big enough, but buildings aren't. Thousands of soldiers, coming to such a town, simply swamp its facilities. There is no place for them to eat, no place to go, no friendly voice to greet them, no sympathetic ear to listen to them.

This all happened the last time we raised a big army—and something had to be done about it.

It's happening this time—and something has to be done about it.

"All right," you say, "why doesn't the Government do something about it?" It is. But it can't do the whole job. This is a job for us civilians, a job already started. Now it needs your help. Here's the set-up:

The Army has taken care of recreation facilities in the camps themselves. And the Government is building club houses near camp areas. But we, the civilians, must pick up from there. The "service organizations"—Y. M. C. A., National Catholic Community Service, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board, National Travelers Aid Association—have joined forces to staff and run these clubs.

These organizations did a mighty good job in the World War. They also made some mistakes. They intend to repeat the good job but not the mistakes. And this time they are working together.

The United Service Organization club houses are for the purpose of serving, not "saving." They're to be clubs—with games, books, music, information, dances, etc.

Naturally, money is needed for this. And quickly. So we ask you to dig down. Give to the U.S.O.—give generously—give several times. It's the one big way we civilians can help right now!

Send your contribution to United Service Organizations National Headquarters, Empire State Building, New York, N. Y., or to your local U. S. O. Committee.

Yanks Capture Lead as Grove Tames Indians

New Yorkers Add To Homer Streak On DiMag's Blow

Bombers Belt Browns 7-5 To Head Circuit for Second Time

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP) — An old and respected tenant, the New York Yankees, moved back into first place in the American League today by belting the St. Louis Browns 7 to 5 while the Cleveland Indians were losing to the Boston Red Sox.

It was the first time since the second week of the season that the Yankees had been on top of the circuit which they dominated for years and their new lease was based on a slender percentage margin, .603 to .597.

In advancing to the lead the Yankees extended two hitting streaks and until the late innings these seemed to matter more to the small crowd of 9,249 at Yankee stadium than did the score of the game.

There was a spontaneous burst of applause as Joe DiMaggio strode to the plate for the first time in the second inning and loud cheering when his 410-foot fly into left field was caught.

Then in the fourth he came to bat again after Tom Henrich had singled and this time he shot a sizzling liner into the left field stands for his sixteenth home run of the year and the thirty-seventh consecutive game in which he has hit safely. It also was the thirty-fourth homer the Yanks have collected over a record stretch of twenty straight games. The box score:

White Sox Down Nats in Overtime Skirmish, 2 to 0

Hudson Walks One Run Home, Is Victim of Triple Steal in Thirteenth

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP) — Youthful Sid Hudson walked home one run in the thirteenth inning and was the victim of a triple steal here today as the White Sox defeated Washington 2-0. Hudson allowed only five hits, while Johnny Rigney yielded six.

Hudson had allowed only three hits, all by Taft Wright, in the first twelve innings, but one out in the thirteenth Mike Kreevich singled to center and was propelled to third by Joe Kuhel's double down the left field line. Wright was purposely passed, filling the bases, and Hudson then walked Luke Appling to score Kreevich.

After Ben Chapman popped out the White Sox negotiated the first triple steal in the majors this season. Kuhel scoring, Wright reaching third and Appling taking second. Kennedy walked, again filling the bases, but Tommy Turner fouled to catcher Jack Early. Rigney disposed of the Nats in order in the Washington half of the thirteenth.

Huskies' Varsity Crew Again Wins Hudson

Eastern Navies Are Outclassed At Poughkeepsie

California Second by Two Lengths with Cornell Third

By BILL BONI

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—The western breed of rowing supermen ruled the Hudson river again tonight.

The varsity crew from the University of Washington retained its four-mile intercollegiate championship with incredible ease, and the Huskies and second-place California made a mockery of their eastern "contention."

Washington, paced by blond, powerful Ted Garhart in his third winning race at Poughkeepsie, whipped California by two lengths in 18 minutes 53.3 seconds. This was no surprise, for these same Huskies had beaten the Bears by an even greater margin two months ago, when they smashed all records for the Oakland (Calif.) estuary three-mile course.

What was almost unbelievable about this race was the vast gap between the two westerners, who among them have won this race eight times in the last nine years, and the best the east could offer. By the end of the first mile and a half the two boats from the Pacific coast, then locked in a bow-and-bow duel, already had a length of open water on Cornell. At the finish three lengths separated the Huskies, first of the eastern eights to finish, from California.

First Pull for Rutgers
California's time in second place was 19:02.3. Back of them in order was Cornell, 19:14.6; Syracuse, 19:18.9; Princeton, 19:23.4; Wisconsin, making a surprisingly fine showing for the lightest boat on the river, 19:29.4; Rutgers, racing here for the first time and also giving a handsome account itself, 19:29.8; Massachusetts Tech, 19:32.8; and Columbia, whose No. 2 man collapsed in the last quarter-mile and was "out" in the boat as it crossed the line, 19:35.5.

From the first few yards of the racing start it was obvious there were only two crews in the race, and from the way Washington was keeping even or better with California while rowing at a lower beat it also seemed a safe bet the Huskies could win whenever Garhart called on a little extra power.

Going under the railroad bridge and into the last mile, rowing a conservative 30% to California's 35, the Huskies already had pulled away to a three-quarter length margin, and they just kept on drawing away from there to the finish line.

Cornell Freshmen Win

After Washington beat California in April, Coach Al Ulbrichson had called them the finest crew he ever had. But all during their training on the Hudson the coach complained about having his men made such outstanding choices to repeat.

The west, with no crew entered in the freshman race, had to be content with two-thirds of the spoils. California's junior varsity beat Washington by a length and a half in 14:04.4 with Cornell third and Columbia fourth and last over the three miles.

Cornell's boat scored an unexpected victory in the freshmen two-mile pull, in which undefeated Syracuse and M.I.T. had been expected to fight Wisconsin for top honors. The Huskies, never worse than third, still were in that spot going into the last half-mile but came up like a splintering streak to beat Wisconsin by a good length in 9:57.7. Back of the Badgers came Syracuse, Princeton, M.I.T. and once again, Columbia.

In contrast to a year ago, when weather conditions were horrible, they were perfect for all three of today's races. There was very little wind and the ripples on the course were nothing to worry this sort of river men.

Tony Francis Wins State Trapshoot Doubles Laurels

WESTPORT, June 25—Tony Francis, of Westport, topped Maryland state doubles trapshoot honors in the recent three-day meet held at the Carroll County Gun club. He shattered 98 of 100 clay pigeons. John Lighter of Cumberland broke 96 in the same event.

J. P. McFadden, of Pylesville, retained the singles title by smashing 198 of 200. Tony Francis and James Stevenson, Cumberland, each had 195. Francis also won the Class A trophy by bringing down twenty-five consecutive clays. Walter Whitefield won the prize for runnerup in Class B.

Treat New Bi-State Loop Vice-President

Nominated at a special league meeting several weeks ago, Ernie Treat of Cumberland was elected vice-president of the Bi-State Baseball League to succeed the late Taylor W. Ross.

Other candidates were Robert Lee, Probstburg, and Hymer Perrell, Westport. Treat, connected with the amateur baseball in this section the past several years, is a director of the Cumberland Colts and a former president of the Tri-County League.

GRIMM NOW OWNER

Charley Grimm

Former star first baseman and manager of the Chicago Cubs, Charley Grimm now becomes a minor league club owner and manager with the announcement that he has purchased an interest in the Milwaukee club of the American Association, William Veck, who has been treasurer of the Cubs, joined with Grimm in buying the Brewers. Grimm has been coach of the Cubs this year.

Wakefield Case Is New Wrinkle On Job-Getting

Students Puzzled over Whether To Major in Baseball or Football

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The Special News Service—We know a young fellow who we think will develop into a crackerjack newspaperman.

He is alert, energetic, doesn't split infinitives beyond repair, doesn't bite at a low curve outside with a publicity spin on it, and can pound a typewriter for extra bases.

He wants $30,000 to sign up with some big league paper, but we think a $25,000 offer will get him. Of course, he's had no professional experience, having worked only a school paper, but shucks, that shouldn't make any difference. Everybody says he's a cinch to go great guns in the big leagues.

What's so funny about that, you editors? Didn't Dick Wakefield just agree to sign to play baseball with the Detroit Tigers for some $45,000? Do they know he'll be a crack-jack major league player? They think he will, sure, but we think our young newspaper sapping will develop into a sturdy oak, too. He's had as much big-league experience as Wakefield. And what's more, there isn't nearly as much chance that he'll come up with cracked fingers or a broken leg, as he doesn't come sliding into his type-writer.

We've tried to convince our young friend that maybe he should try to wrangle a $20-a-week job, or maybe work for nothing for a few weeks just to prove he has what it takes, but he's a stubborn cuss, and just says:

"If Wakefield can get a bonus for signing to go to work, why shouldn't I? Why is baseball any different than anything else?"

He has something there, at that. If poor, down-trodden ball players, who have only a $65,000-a-year man to see that they aren't reduced to slavery by the club owners, can command as high as $45,000 just to promise to try to play high-class baseball maybe we have been wasting a lot of sympathy on poor, down-trodden ball players.

Offhand, we can't think of another branch of human endeavor where a prospective employee, with no real experience, gets a 1890-sized fortune for just agreeing to try. Pro football sometimes pays bonuses, but the pro footballers usually have a pretty good line on what their man will be able to do, and don't have to worry about whether he can hit a curve ball or go to his right.

You can't criticize Dick Wakefield. You can only envy him and wonder if some day all business will be conducted along the same lines so that a fellow who succeeded in being able to get a bonus from the plumb-ers' union for signing up to learn to be a journeyman sink fixer.

You also wonder if male students at the University of Michigan won't be in a quandary as to whether to major in football or baseball, what with Tom Harmon cashing in plenty as a result of his gridiron fame and Wakefield capitalizing immediately on his diamond prowess. Education, it's wonderful.

Getting back to our young friend, he's open to offers, and he doesn't expect to be farmed out for internship with some cross-roads weekly. Thirty-thousand is his price, and if he won't take less we know a fellow who will. In fact, we might sign up for $20,000.

Night Sandlot Ball

Oklahoma City has a $13,500 lighted amateur baseball park built by a fans association to stimulate amateur ball in that city.

Cardinals Whip Boston's Braves To Stay on Top

Redbirds Win 6-2; White's Scoreless Inning Streak Ends

ST. LOUIS, June 25 (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals won today or lose the National League lead to Brooklyn so they pounced on Boston again, this time 6 to 2, and kept that half-game margin.

Ernie White, rookie hurler, won his fifth game of the season, struck out nine Braves and allowed only seven hits but his string of scoreless innings was snapped at twenty-seven when Sebastian Sisti singled in the second driving in Boston's two runs.

That pair of runs tied the Cardinals' two of the first inning but before the second inning ended, St. Louis led 5 to 2 and a sixth run was added in the seventh on Captain Terry Moore's third home run of the year.

Manager Casey Stengel shook up his batting order, without success. He sent Don Manno to first base, Walter to right field and Chet Ross to left. The first two each got a hit but Ross struck out three times.

Athletics Shade Detroit's Tigers

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP)—The Athletics won their second victory of the season over the Detroit Tigers today, sewing up a 5 to 4 decision by scoring three runs in the fourth inning. The Tigers had won eight of their nine earlier games with the A's.

Shortstop Al Brancato's triple drove in the deciding runs in the fourth and sent Schoolboy Rowe to the showers. Jack Knott gave the Tigers nine hits and was relieved in the eighth by Tom Ferriek who stopped the Bengals thereafter.

Lose Night Tilts

PHILADELPHIA—Try as they might, the Athletics have yet to win a night contest this year. The closest the Mackmen came to breaking the jinx was Les McCrabb's effort against Detroit yesterday, but the Tigers still managed to eke out a 2-1 decision and keep the A's string of night ball defeats intact.

$32,823.90 Spent for Welfare in Month of May, Report Shows

The break-down of the report showed $14,633.39 spent for old age assistance; $11,848.35, aid to dependent children; $647.10, public assistance to needy blind; and $5,695.06, general public assistance.

"Yessir, I told that hard-boiled top a thing or two!"

This scene, at the Army Y.M.C.A. in Anniston, Ala., demonstrates that soldiers on leave can really enjoy themselves "staging it."

But all selectees aren't as lucky as these men from Fort McClellan, shown in comfortable surroundings, smiling and relaxed. Field reports of war-exposed troops have disclosed such congestion in many small communities near large training camps that a real recreation bottleneck has resulted.

Thousands of service men can find no beneficial diversion. Many can't even find a decent place to sit.

The $10,765,000 program of the United Service Organizations is designed to remedy this situation and fill what highest government officials call a "grave need."

U.S.O. member agencies will operate more than 368 spacious, well-appointed, completely staffed service clubs outside army and navy bases. The clubs will provide recreation, social activities and personal guidance.

Agencies making up the United Service Organizations have pooled 310 years of experience in this undertaking. They are the Young Men's Christian Associations, the National Catholic Community Service, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Women's Christian Association, the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association.
